

Industry sector at a glance

Care

About

The care sector is generally divided into two separate functions, Healthcare and Social Care:

Healthcare

Healthcare is associated with treatment, care or aftercare of someone with a disease, illness, injury or disability. This care is generally provided by nurses or clinically trained staff.

Social Care

Social Care relates to the assistance of daily living, maintaining independence, social interaction and supported accommodation such as a care home.

Roles available

There are many different roles available in the care sector, here are just a few

 Hospital setting Care Workers	 Residential care home Care Workers	 Mental health Care Workers
 Family Care Workers		 Community Care Workers

Care roles are varied and determined by the type of service being provided and the individuals being supported.

What it takes to work in care

Here are some of the qualities required to work in care

 Respectful	 Reliable	 Practical	 Caring
 Empathetic	 Patient	 Observant	 Trustworthy

Did you know?

Adult social care is one of the few sectors where jobs are increasing. There are currently 1.6 million jobs in adult social care and by 2035 it is estimated that the sector will need enough people to fill another 650,000 jobs to meet growing demand.

Source: www.skillsforcare.org.uk

A criminal record check must be completed on everyone who wants to work in care. Depending on the role you apply for you'll be required to undergo a Basic, Standard or Enhanced check. Protecting Vulnerable Groups is the disclosure scheme in Scotland.

 Basic disclosure	 Standard disclosure
 Enhanced disclosure	 Protecting vulnerable groups

Further reading

You can find out more about what it's like to work in care by visiting <https://www.aquestionofcare.org.uk/>

Disclaimer: Every effort has been made to ensure that the information contained within this workbook is accurate and reflects current best practices. All information is provided 'as is' without any representation or warranties, expressed or implied of any kind and should be used as guidance only. All legislation is correct at the time of printing however may be subject to change.

Progress >> > to Success